2005 CATALOG (see new plants list at back of catalog)

Updated January 23, 2005

ABOUT US

Hello,

To those who might be new to us, Mary's Plant Farm is not a garden center, it is a small farm, where the plants are field grown. Our perennial plant list is extensive including many shade and native varieties. Also many varieties of flowering shrubs and understory trees, plus unusual and hard to find flowering shade trees. For over 50 years, I have been growing the ordinary and unusual in plants. Some of which were handed down from my parents garden and are not readily available. If you do not see it listed or are having difficulty finding a specific variety, let us know. It might be available but not in enough quantity to list.

This catalog serves not only mail order customers, but as a guide to those who come to the nursery. In some instances there may be a number of different sizes in a particular plant, and due to limited catalog space not listed as such. Some prices may vary in the nursery from the catalog price, as cash and carry is often times less.

Visitors are always welcome to browse our English style perennial borders, natural areas, rockery of Apple Tree Herb Garden. On any given day our customers are doing just that, viewing the growth habits of perennials both woody, evergreen and herbaceous, seeing what growing conditions each prefer. Groups who wish a guided tour are asked to make reservations. We enjoy meeting new gardening friends and sharing our gardening experiences.

For years we have landscaped gardens and trouble spots. Most of our landscape business has come to us by recommendations from our previous customers. We pride ourselves in designing gardens that look as though they have grown there naturally and not contrived by man. Planting the right material for its growing situation is paramount. English garden designs are a specialty, but we are also proud of our contemporary designs. We use stone or brick walls where necessary or elevate the ground naturally to achieve the effect needed. Your landscaping should look unique to your home, not a copy of your neighbor's.

We have a wide selection of brass sundials, garden statuary, tables and benches. Along with the natural color concrete, which ages out to a stone look, we have a terra cotta colored concrete for planters and urns, which will tolerate the winter weather. Many of the pieces we sell are offered in many national garden magazines.

Mary Harrison and Sherri Berger

GUARANTEE: Each order we send will be filled with stock of fine quality, packed with care to reach you in good live growing condition. If you are not entirely satisfied, return it at once for refund minus postage.

We are not responsible to replace plants that have failed due to conditions beyond our control such as possible neglect, weather, growing conditions or the lack of experience on the part of the gardener.

A Word About Native Plants: We offer many native varieties because we like them, but we do not collect them from the wild. We grow them from cuttings or seeds, and are listed as Native.

Prices subject to change.

BULBS AND TUBERS

Varieties will be updated by July 1, 2005.

The sizes of plants sold are not young transplants, but field grown plants ready to go into the landscape: the same plants that are sold directly at the nursery. We do not pot all plants in gallon size containers, but pot them in the correct size container for the root system and its required growing space.

KEY:

tender — bulbs/plants must be dug for winter & stored/potted

* — an herb and good landscape material

 — rockery

 — ground cover

shade — shade material

Z — hardiness zone (example: Z4)

We sell only top size bulbs and ship at the correct planting time.

A full line of Fall, Spring and Summer blooming bulbs are available at the nursery Sept. 1st.

Receive a 5% discount on spring blooming bulbs ordered prior to June 10th.

Sorry, no discount on: lillium, lycoris, cyclamen, canna, colchicum, or oxalis regnelli.

ALLIUMS (also see PERENNIAL LISTING)

These varieties for fall shipping only.

Alliums from bulbs are great garden subjects. They go dormant after bloom, so tuck them in close to later blooming plants ex. the taller varieties by the June blooming Lilium, shorter ones near August bloom Campanula carpatica. All Allium like well drained soil.

"As to invasives, natives and exotics or whatever. I've read so much about one state banning this plant, and another state banning something else and then planting only natives. I have always grown many natives, but some natives can become darn invasive, so do your research."

"Each year I drift more and more toward the naturalistic or 'American garden style', but it isn't for everyone. I still like some of my gardens in borders, rockeries etc., but all that grass we had was not essential and all those hours of mowing can now be spent sitting on a bench in the more casual mulched areas, gazing at the flowering trees, shrubs or the wildflowers and bulbs planted there." –Mary Harrison

HEMEROCALLIS (Daylily)

SEE WEB SITE (marysplantfarm.com) FOR PHOTOS

We grow over 1600 named varieties. Diploids & tetraploids. The type, variety or color is endless. There are spider types, trumpets, reflexed or twisted sepals, curled or ruffled sepals and petals. Colors range from near white thru black-reds and everything in between except blue. Bloom periods are from mid May thru September, and height from 1' thru the altissimas at 5' to 6'. We dig and ship from March thru October.

E - early bloom June, M - mid season July, L - late August/September. These overlap into the following months giving about a 4 to 5 week bloom period. Peak bloom is late July/Aug. Average flower size is 5" across, if flower is larger it is listed as lg. fl. if smaller it is listed as pony. Size of plants sent are 2 or more mature blooming size fans, we do not line out. Bloom color can be altered slightly by soil or heat. All Hemerocallis need at least 1/2 day of sunshine for good bloom. We offer the following groups for those who are landscaping or naturalizing large areas. All listed are named varieties, no seedlings. If you wish a complete listing, with many old heritage varieties or the newest TETS, send SASE with 2 stamps for listing.

FOR LANDSCAPE:

Some of these we've lost the names, others are in an area in the field we're clearing. All colors are available. This is really a great buy. All will be different, there are over 100 varieties in this batch. Full blooming size plants Double fans. 6 for $21.00

COLLECTION OF FIVE NAMED VARIETIES:

Tagged with color, height, season of bloom. All different: pastels, creams, peaches, pinks, lavenders, reds, yellows, oranges and bi-colors. Great buy!

DRIED FLOWERS

Many plants have flowers and pods that can be dried for arrangements and wreaths. I have always grown certain plants for their drying qualities and had dried bouquets in my home, even before they were in vogue. We usually have dried Baby's Breath and German Statice for sale, dried properly so as not to look like it has been smashed. We also have dried pods, herbs, and a good selection of colorful Statice Sinuata, Gomphrena, and Celosia, $10.00 per bundle.

The following is a list of plants that can be used for drying.

ALCHEMILLA - flower spray and foliage glycerine well-stems in 1/3 glycerine to 2/3 warm water solution
ACHILLEA - blooms dry beautifully
ALLIUM - seed heads on A. Christophi, A. High Society, A. Alfatunense
ARTEMISIA - entire stem of foliage and bloom dry well
BAPTISIA - sprays of black pods
CENTAUREA MACROCEPHALA - dry when bloom is at its peak
CROCOSMIA seed heads
DICTAMNUS - pods
ECHINOPS - cut for drying as first flower in ball opens, to keep from disintegrating, dip in solution of 1 Tbs. Elmers Glue & 1/2 c. water and stand upright
ERYNGIUM - blooms dry blue
GYPSOPHILIA GRASSES - any listed in this catalog - seedhead or plumes
HYDRANGEA - bloom heads of "Annabelle" are best, but "Sister Therese" turn red and Paniculata varieties have lavender shades
LAVENDER - bloom spikes
LIMONIUM (Sea Lavender) - cut when spray has blooms
LIATRIS - cut at peak bloom
IRIS PSUEDACORUS - stem of green pods, hang upside down till dry
IRIS, SIBERIAN AND SPURIA - both have stems of pods
SANTOLINA - both foliage and bloom dry
STACHYS - bloom dries very well
STATICE - several perennial varieties

ANNUALS FOR DRIED MATERIAL:

Nigella - pods
Scabiosa Stellata
Celosia
Salvia
Lunaria (Money Plant) - truly a biennial, dies as seed pods form (Seed pack $1.50)
Gomphrena
Statice Sinuata

"In mentioning deer, I'm reminded of the complaints I hear of deer eating plants. Interspersing a few plants they don't like can make them move on. They usually do not like fuzzy leaved plants, so the leatherleaf viburnums are a bit of a deterrent. Also the Rudebeckia including the gloriosa daisy types. They don't like the tall grasses, although they will chew on the short fescues (Festuca ovina). I've heard a lot of complaints that they eat daylilies (Hemerocallis), yet with the hundreds we grow in two different fields and borders, we've had no damage. At least, not that I can see. I've used daylilies in landscaping around two different swimming pools, because I've been told by the homeowners (in rural areas) that the daylilies were the only think the deer didn't eat." -Mary Harrison

HERB LISTING

The sizes of plants sold are not young transplants, but field grown plants ready to go into the landscape: the same plants that are sold directly at the nursery. We do not pot all plants in gallon size containers, but pot them in the correct size container for the root system and its required growing space.

Most herbs prefer sun, well drained soil, and no fertilizer as too lush of growth alters flavor. They do like a bit of lime occasionally. Herbs that will tolerate shade (S) or prefer shade (SS) are so marked. The 'tender' herbs make wonderful houseplants and are lovelier as they increase with age and you can use them during winter months. I then place them in the herb garden in summer, in their pots or in the ground. Pot them up in Sept. and bring in when danger of heavy frost Z6 or colder. Don't over water. For 'KNOT' or Herb Garden edging, use Santolina, Tuecium or dwarf (12" max) Buxus.

Annual herbs are available May-July only.

"Last Fall I was surprised when a young gardener said to me "You've made gardening so much easier for me. I'm not afraid of doing things wrong anymore". I never really stopped to think about it, but gardening should be fun, that is why we do it. I know we break our backs, but it is insidious. It gets in your blood and your hooked."

ROSES

Order and shipping information.

Certain plants require a specific ship time. In spring or fall, shrubs, roses, and trees are all shipped semi-dormant and semi-bare-root. Since quantities are sometimes limited and items sell out, orders that are placed early are put into our system and the plants requested are held for you until the proper shipping time. We do not charge your credit card until two weeks prior to shipping. We also send notification of the exact ship date so you can be expecting your plants.

The sizes of plants sold are not young transplants, but field grown plants ready to go into the landscape: the same plants that are sold directly at the nursery. We do not pot all plants in gallon size containers, but pot them in the correct size container for the root system and its required growing space.

The size of roses shipped are bare-root #1 grade, the same blooming size roses as sold in the nursery in 2 gallon containers.

KEY:

Z ————— hardiness zone (example: Z4)

+ ————— Explorer series

B&B ————— Balled and Burlapped

See <http://www.mirror.org/groups/crs/efreeman.html> for about the Explorer and Parkland series of hardy roses

See <http://www.extension.iastate.edu/pages/hancock/hort/educ/HardyRosesIowa.html> for about Dr. Griffith Buck, hardy, shrub roses

A bit about 'Own root roses' Do not confuse these own root roses with small bushes. Ours are full blooming size bushes, but being on their own root they can not freeze out. Bare Root shipped March, April and October only. Potted roses available anytime. CA, WA & AZ (BR) only. All varieties on display throughout the borders, rose pergola, and herb garden. The roses offered here, own root or grafted, are ones that will be with you a lifetime, becoming more beautiful with age, so give these bushes room. These are also varieties that are not susceptible to freezing out in bad weather. We have many other miscellaneous varieties at the nursery but not in enough quantity to list. So inquire if you're looking for a particular variety.

Peak bloom for our roses is usually the first week of June.

DR. GRIFFITH BUCK ROSES

Dr. Griffith Buck of Iowa crosses the Olde Roses with hybrid teas to get the fragrance and hardiness of the olde and the bloom shape of the hybrid tea roses, for roses that are hardy to Z3. I've been growing them for over 20 yrs and they are superior to any rose that's being hybridized today. I grow over 15 of his varieties.

"A caller in January asking about roses wondered why anyone would plant a rose that bloomed only once each season. I told them to visit around the first week of June when the fragrant Harrison's Yellow, Constance Spry, Alchemist or others are dripping with bloom and covering the ground. It's like drowning in fragrant rose petals."-Mary Harrison

SEED MIX

Over the past few years, the wild flower seed in a can has become quite popular. Upon reading the ingredients of these mixes, we find that many times they are not for our climate or varieties that we consider weeds. If you're planting Chickory and Queen Ann's Lace, you can collect that from the roadside. We sell a naturalizing mix of seeds.

These are not wildflowers, but perennials and self sowing hardy annuals that will continue to seed year after year. We sell a shade mix, an herb mix, a short sun mix (which is great for rockerys), along with the naturalizing mix which is good for sun and partial shade.

The packets are $3.25. Remembering not to sow it too thick, a packet should cover a 8 X 8 foot area.

Larger size: $8.99. Should cover an area 20' x 20'

Naturalizing mix contains: Echinecea, Pyrethrum, Rudbeckia, Shasta, Helenium, Gloriosa Daisy, Digitalis, Coreopsis, Aquilegia, Malva, Aster, Joe Pye, Platycodon, plus many more

SHRUBS

Order and shipping information.

Certain plants require a specific ship time. In spring or fall, shrubs, roses, and trees are all shipped semi-dormant and semi-bareroot. Since quantities are sometimes limited and items sell out, orders that are placed early are put into our system and the plants requested are held for you until the proper shipping time. We do not charge your credit card until two weeks prior to shipping. We also send notification of the exact ship date so you can be expecting your plants.

The sizes of plants sold are not young transplants, but field grown plants ready to go into the landscape: the same plants that are sold directly at the nursery. We do not pot all plants in gallon size containers, but pot them in the correct size container for the root system and its required growing space.

These shrubs are field grown blooming size. Container sizes listed are the sizes sold in nursery and same sizes shipped, but most shrubs are shipped bare-root. Sizes listed in catalog (before price) is the size shipped. Also larger field sizes and B&B available at nursery.

TREES

Order and shipping information.

Certain plants require a specific ship time. In spring or fall, shrubs, roses, and trees are all shipped semi-dormant and semi-bareroot. Since quantities are sometimes limited and items sell out, orders that are placed early are put into our system and the plants requested are held for you until the proper shipping time. We do not charge your credit card until two weeks prior to shipping. We also send notification of the exact ship date so you can be expecting your plants.

The sizes of plants sold are not young transplants, but field grown plants ready to go into the landscape: the same plants that are sold directly at the nursery. We do not pot all plants in gallon size containers, but pot them in the correct size container for the root system and its required growing space.

Since our catalog serves both mail order and Plant Farm visitors, B&B (balled & burlapped) trees are not for mail order. Varying sizes available at nursery and priced accordingly. Understory trees are those which will grow under another tree's canopy.

"By planting berried shrubs, trees and fall blooming bulbs and perennials, your landscape can be as colorful as it was in May. Fall is really a great time for planting. The ground is usually in perfect shape, with a bit of moisture and still warm. It takes a while for soil to cool, and the roots of plants have a chance to get established. Then in the spring, while the ground is so cold and wet, the plants are already growing the second the ground thaws." - Mary Harrison

WILDFLOWERS

The sizes of plants sold are not young transplants, but field grown plants ready to go into the landscape: the same plants that are sold directly at the nursery. We do not pot all plants in gallon size containers, but pot them in the correct size container for the root system and its required growing space.

KEY:

tender — bulbs/plants must be dug for winter & stored/potted

* — an herb and good landscape material

 — rockery

 — ground cover

shade — shade material

Z — hardiness zone (example: Z4)

All are native. Wildflowers to us are the plants we nurture or allow to reseed in areas where we can walk in early Spring to Fall and see lovely bloom. Some bloom long enough to be used in perennial borders, ponds or as ground covers, and are so listed in those sections of this catalog. Others to us are weeds and are pulled out constantly, such as Queen Anne's Lace, Chicory, and Goldenrod. Our native ferns are listed in the Fern section. At the nursery the wild flowers are sold potted. Mail orders are also shipped potted and growing unless dormant. If shipped in their dormant state, plant immediately. Dor. means plant goes dormant for summer. We do collect seed from our plants, and make it available on some varieties.

"Any day the sun shines, a fresh air walk in the garden is wonderful. Some winters when everything is white, I see the exfoliating bark showing cinnamon and white, the hollies, and cones and berries on shrubs. All have a different beauty. As you walk when it's snowing heavily, there's a hush in the air, and the sounds of traffic seem far away and subdued. My garden is becoming more naturalistic every year. A garden is never static, as plants are living things; they change constantly, therefore forcing change in the garden " – Mary Harrison

"As I winterscape, I'll also make sure I plant to lure birds. My grounds are really a haven for them. They repay me by eating many insects in the summer. Many times when the fall webworm is in the trees, by the time I decide to spray, the cuckoos have arrived and eaten them. Even though the birds sow weed seeds with their droppings (i.e. Honeysuckle Mackii), they also occasionally drop seed of lovely wildflowers. Many years ago I found my first plant of Golden Seal (Hydrastis canadensis) beneath the locust along the driveway. I've collected and resowed the seed from it for years. In my early teens I learned you cannot dig Trout Lily (Erythronium americanum), since the roots are far too deep, I hate to think how many I may have destroyed. But over the years, under the same locust, are quite a few Erythronium, blooming in white and yellow. And now I notice them showing up in my so-called woodland (it's not easy making a woodland out of a cornfield). I've never planted a May Apple (Podophyllum peltatum), yet over the years there's a large bed of them where the birds roosted in a pine that went down in a storm a couple of years ago."
